DETAILED ACTION

Specification

1. The lengthy specification has not been checked to the extent necessary to determine the presence of all possible minor errors. Applicant's cooperation is requested in correcting any errors of which applicant may become aware in the specification.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. Claims 1-4 and 6-9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Inoue et al (4,978,603).

Inoue et al disclose an image-forming process which comprises after imagewise exposing a silver halide photographic material having at least one silver halide emulsion layer composed of silver halide grains having a mean grain size of not larger than 0.15 microns. The examples employ grains having mean grain sizes (ECD's) of 0.15, 0.09, and 0.07, which meet the instant claim limitations. The process of preparing the grains includes a step of Ostwald ripening, and the grains are preferably cubic, which would not be twinned grains, thus meeting the limitations of the instant claim 6. With respect to the COV limitations, the reference teaches that mono-dispersed grains wherein silver halide grains of which at least 95% by weight or number are composed of a group of silver halide grains having grain sizes within  $\pm 40\%$ , and preferably  $\pm 20\%$  of the mean grain size are preferred.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claim 5 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Inoue et al in view of Ichikawa et al (5,270,159).

Inoue et al has been discussed above. While the reference teaches that the grain shave a grain size of 0.15 microns or less and employs grains having sizes of 0.07 microns in its examples, the reference does not specifically teach the size claimed by the instant claim 5.

Ichikawa et al disclose a method of preparing fine grains similar to that of Inoue et al. The reference teaches that it is preferable for the sizes of the fine grains obtained by the process of this invention are not larger than 0.06 microns, preferably not larger than 0.03 microns, and more preferably not larger than 0.01 micron.

Given the teachings of the reference, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to prepare the material of Inoue et al choosing to prepare grains having sizes of as low as 0.01 micron given the teachings of Ichikawa et al with reasonable expectation of achieving a material having high contrast.

Conclusion

6. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Hahm et al (5,523,200), Loicono et al (5,437,971), and Schroeder et al (6,143,484) are cited for their teachings of similar grains.
